

CLIFORD EASTWOOD IS BURNED TO DEATH

WELL KNOWN DIXON RESIDENT
PASSED AWAY TODAY FROM BURN RECEIVED.

BED CLOTHING CAUGHT FIRE

Was Smoking in Bed Last Night and Bed Clothing Ignited—Too Feeble to Save Himself.

Clifford Eastwood, aged 69, died at his home, 522 N. Geneva Ave., at about 6 o'clock this morning from a shock following burns he received last evening. While smoking in bed the bed clothing ignited, his enfeebled condition being unable to withstand the nervous strain encountered.

Since last fall Mr. Eastwood, who is very well known in this vicinity, has been so enfeebled from hardening of the arteries and a complication of diseases that he has been almost helpless. During that time he has been given almost constant attention by his niece, Mrs. Charles Russell, and her husband, with whom he resided.

Last evening, after having eaten supper in his room he asked to be assisted back into bed, and as was his custom, started to smoke a cigar, the ash tray being on a stand at the side of the bed.

Mr. Russell, who had been with him, went down stairs to eat a hurried supper, and in the ten minutes he was gone the tragic accident occurred. Mr. Russell heard the aged invalid jump out onto the floor of the room above.

Clothing Ablaze.

He hurried upstairs and found Mr. Eastwood standing in the middle of the room, his nightgown ablaze and the bed clothing burning. He grasped a blanket and smothered the flames that were eating away at Mr. Eastwood's clothing and then turned his attention to the bedding, throwing the flaming articles from the window.

After removing the blazing material Mr. Russell placed the invalid on the bed and summoned a physician, and all that could possibly be done for him was accomplished, but to no avail, as the weakened condition of the sufferer was not sufficient to withstand the shock, and he passed away this morning.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Russell are almost prostrated because of the tragic mishap, and Mr. Russell suffered painful burns about the hands and arms while extinguishing the flames.

Coroner Geo. Stephan arrived from Ashton to hold an inquest over the body of Mr. Eastwood, and impelled the following jury: Raymond McGowan, Will Ford, John Howell, Wm. Dykeman, Jake Snyder and Earl E. Holdridge. Their verdict was that Mr. Eastwood came to his death from burns received when his bed clothing caught fire while he was smoking in bed.

IMPROVEMENT IN COURT HOUSE LAWN

SET OUT NEW TREES AND MAKE
MANY OF THE NEEDED
IMPROVEMENTS.

Janitor George Eichenberg of the court house is making noticeable improvements in the court house lawn and parking places between walks and curbs. The low places in the lawn have been filled and seeded and new soft elm trees have been set out to allow the removal of a few older ones which have been so broken by storms that their beauty is destroyed. The sod on the plots between the walks and curbs is being taken up and about four inches of earth removed, the sod will be replaced, the change being made to remedy a condition which has been very annoying to pedestrians. Heretofore the grass has been so much higher than the walks that water, snow and slush stood on the passage ways. By lowering the sod the water will be allowed to drain off.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shippert of Elkhart, Ind., were here yesterday.

DESTROY PROPERTY IN TAMPICO FIGHT

BIG OIL TANKS PERFORATED
AND OIL RUNS INTO RIVER—
ONE IS FIRED.

TWO WOMEN REPORTED HANGED

Also Report a Prisoner Hanged Because He Had Bullets in His Pockets—Women and Children Flee to Boats.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Apr. 10—Continued fighting at Tampico with great danger to oil property is reported to the state department today from warships on the Mexican coast. The official statement says there were several oil tanks struck and one is on fire. The oil is running into the rivers. Admiral Mayor delivered another letter to Gen. Zera Goha about shots fired into the Pierce oil plant by Federal gunboats. Fears are entertained that there will be wholesale destruction of property.

It is reported that two women were hanged for attempting to release prisoners from Cuartel and a constituent prisoner is reported to have been hanged because he had bullets in his pocket. Sixty women and children were taken on board the Des Moines and all American women and children have been brought up from points below the city except Labarra and they boarded the German steamer Odessa. The refugees say they only want refuge for the present, not removal. Fighting at Tampico is heavy and the rebels are in possession of both Arbol Grande and Dona Cecilia.

Secretary Daniels says he was informed of the reported ultimatum from Admiral Mayo to the federal commander that he cease firing from gunboats into the city. Monterey is reported to be quiet.

Announcement was made this forenoon by Vice President E. D. Alexander of the Illinois Northern Utilities company that the company had completed negotiations with Northwestern Barbed Wire Co. of Rock Falls whereby the I. N. U. will take over the company's power franchise in the city of Rock Falls providing the state utilities commission, before whom the question is now pending, consents to the transfer.

As soon as official sanction arrives the I. N. U. will take immediate possession of the poles, wires, transformers and such equipment now being used by the Rock Falls people in supplying power to the various factories. The Rock Falls manufacturers will be pleased because of the deal, for it will give them unlimited power. Here before they have been considerably restricted.

The utility company expects to be selling about 500 horse power before long in Rock Falls.

DENY INJUNCTION FOR FEDERAL CLUB

COURT REFUSES TO ENJOIN KILLIFER FROM PLAYING WITH PHILADELPHIA NATIONALS

SYNDICATE RESERVE CLAUSE NOT VALID

President Gilmore Pleased Over Decision on Reserve Clause—Will Carry Case Higher Up.

(By Associated Press.)

Grand Rapids, Mich., Apr. 10—Federal Judge Sessions denied the application of the Federal league baseball club for an injunction enjoining Killifer, catcher, from playing with the Philadelphia Nationals, on grounds that the Federal league did not come into court with "clean hands." The decision also holds that the reserve clause is invalid.

The decision conceded the validity of both signed contracts by Killifer, one with Philadelphia and one with the Chicago Federals, and scores Killifer for making the contracts, saying, "The record shows he is a person upon whose pledged word little or no reliance can be placed." Also, "Are the plaintiffs in court with clean hands? Can it be doubted that if the plaintiffs had not interfered with Killifer he would have carried out his agreement with the Philadelphia club?"

Federals Pleased.

Chicago, Apr. 10—The Federal league regards the Killifer decision favorably, though it was denied. The decision on the reserve clause, said President Gilmore, not only allows the Federals to keep major leaguers they have signed but gives an opening for a big raid next year. Gilmore said the Killifer case would be carried to the highest court.

PULL OUT THE COTTON.

Don't go thru the world with your ears full of it. It's a needless expense, and contrary to nature.

You might as well permit your hands to be tied, your tongue bridled, or your eyes bandaged. While on OCCASION either procedure might be commendable, on the whole these organs are given you for a purpose, with a think pan to sift impressions. If you're on a jury don't be afraid to hear the evidence—you're not forced to believe it.

Many an innocent man would be executed, and many a rogue go free, if only one side were heard. If you've painting to do and you've not already enlightened yourself upon the subject, pull out the cotton and give us a chance at the same time. Maybe our paints and wall varnishes cost more per gallon than his — maybe it's cheaper for you in the end.

Maybe it's cheaper NOW — Who knows? Anyway, pull out the cotton; limber up. Come in. Shine up your think pan and bring it along. We can please you on anything in home Decorations. Wall Paper, Mureseco, Wall Paint, Alabastine, Paint Brushes, etc. Delivered at your door on short notice.

VERA CRUZ HEARS OF TAMPICO'S FALL

No Confirmation of Rebel Victory,
But It Is Known Heavy Fighting Occurred.

MEXICAN SHIPS SHELL CITY

Villa Forced Briton to Carry Demand for Surrender of Torreon—American Representative Sends Report to State Department.

Vera Cruz, April 10.—Word was received at the American consulate from the consular agent at Tuxpam that rumors are current there that Tampico has fallen.

While there was no confirmation of this news, it was known there had been serious fighting between fed- erals and rebels around Tampico. The latest direct reports from Tampico said that the Mexican federal gunboats were defending the town, but were doing much damage owing to bad marksmanship. The Waters- Pierce oil storage tank at Arbol Grande was set on fire and many other tanks were hit, large quantities of oil flowing into the river. The warehouse of the Agulla Oil company caught fire from shells of the gunboat Zaragosa and was destroyed. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

Sixty American women were on board the United States warships and the German cruiser Bresden had gone up the river to rescue others.

Villa Coerces British Official.
El Paso, Tex., April 10.—H. S. Cunard-Cummins, acting British vice-consul at Gomez Palacio, was used by General Villa to carry to General Velasco, March 27, during the battle of Torreon, a demand that the latter surrender.

Newspaper correspondents who arrived from the front said that Mr. Cunard-Cummins performed the mission under protest and was subjected to rifle fire on his return toward the rebel lines.

George C. Carothers, special agent of the state department at the battle, sent a report to the state department as follows:

"At 4 p. m. General Villa sent a messenger to see Cummins, requesting him to go to headquarters. I and H. W. Potter accompanied him. When we arrived, after introducing Cummins to Villa, Villa said to him that he knew that Cummins was an enemy to the constitutional cause, that he had information that Cummins was accustomed to banqueting with the fed- erals, that he knew he was a friend of General Velasco, that in view of this friendship with Velasco he wanted Cummins to take a communication to Velasco in which he demanded the surrender of the city to avoid further bloodshed.

American Asks Him to Go.
"Cummins refused to take the message, arguing that he was neutral and should not mix in political affairs of the country.

"At this Villa became very angry and said we foreigners were demanding that he protect foreigners and be humanitarian in his acts, and that at the very first opportunity given us to do some good we refused. He commenced to talk about probably having to fight all of us when I interposed and advised Cummins to go.

"Villa said he first thought of sending the message by me, but on second thought had decided on Cummins on account of his friendship with Velasco, as he would be in no danger.

"Cummins agreed to go, so I wrote some instructions to Mr. Ulmer. Cummins left about five o'clock and was to return about noon next day."

Reports of the defeat of a rebel brigade sent against San Pedro and of General Velasco joining with General Hidalgo at Saltillo, where they have a joint command of 12,000 men, were brought.

GUSTAV STANDS KNIFE WELL

Superficial Ulcer in Stomach of the King of Sweden.

Stockholm, Sweden, April 10.—A bulletin issued from the bedside of King Gustave of Sweden, who was operated for ulceration of the stom- ach, said:

"The king slept several hours and then experienced the usual discom- forts following an operation. His tem- perature is 99.9 and his condition is as satisfactory as possible."

The operation, which was in charge of Prof. John Wilhelm Berg, a well-known Swedish surgeon, lasted two hours. A more or less superficial ulcer was discovered on the left lower side of the stomach, near the pylorus, or opening between the stomach and small intestine.

Bill to Elevate Embassy.
Washington, April 10.—A bill to ele- vate the American legation to Chile to an embassy was introduced by Chair- man Flood of the house foreign affairs committee. The bill has the approval of the state department.

To Test Iowa Law.
Keokuk, Ia., April 10.—The constitu- tionality of the Iowa law provid- ing for the sterilization of certain classes of criminals will be decided in a test case before 13 federal judges here.

DEMENTTOWN

Large fissures may be expected to make their appearance in the earth in the neighborhood of Sterling with in the next year. The drug stores there have taken the pledge not to handle intoxicating liquors or spirits of any kind after May 1 and it is pre- dicted that the town will be so dry it will crack.

But the supreme court has not yet spoken regarding that women's suf- frage law.

Will they have the courage to face the noise that will arise if they throw it out? We wouldn't dare go home if we did such a thing.

After all is said and done the women—bless 'em—still remain the Eternal Question.

And the chances are that none of us old ginks would like 'em so well if they weren't so charmingly uncer- tain.

Erinstance:

A maid there was in Dixon
Whose modesty was rare;
Of Autumn trees she'd never speak
Because their limbs were bare.

When night its sable shadows threw
She'd tumble in a swoon
If certain did not hide from view
The man up in the moon.

A plumber caused her death one day,
So the story goes—
By asking in a careless way
To let him see her hose.

Dramatic Notes

DIXON OPERA HOUSE.

Anyone wanting a play of action, that for four acts keeps the pulses a-tingle, is recommended to last season's big New York, Chicago and Boston success, The Ghost Breaker, the Dickey-Goddard play with Victor Lambert as its star, which comes to the Dixon opera house on Monday, April 13th. For in this play melodrama, farce and romance in about equal quantities are blended so deftly that they make one substance, and that is some tonic. The story is that of a young Kentuckian, unhappy heir of a family feud who after shooting the last member of his enemy's family in a hotel in New York, takes refuge in a bedroom which chances to be that of a Spanish prince. There is a lie and cry after him, but the prince sympathizes with his story, protects him and then engages him to rid her ancient castle in Spain of the ghost which haunts it and which, it is feared, has caused the death of her brother. Thus the Kentuckian is started on a course of adventure which does not cease until the ghost is laid, the castle's store of hidden treasure revealed, the plotters overthrown and the ghost breaker starts back for America with the princess at his side.

FAMILY THEATRE.

Last evening the Family gave a diversified vaudeville program, which will close Sunday night. Manager Plein who has just returned from Chicago, reports that some of vaudeville's choicest offerings have been contracted for in rapid succession at the Family. One is the Mexican Marimba band which opened here last evening. The offerings consist of four Mexicans playing marimbaphones, and the native selections were much appreciated. Another splendid attraction was Elwood & Snow, man and lady ventriloquists, in an unique offering.

PRINCESS THEATRE

A special 3 reel picture, The Lost Treasure, will be shown at the Princess tonight. The story of frontier days in which a Wells-Fargo express driver is held up and robbed and is saved by his sweetheart.

QUEEN TO VISIT WEST

Bulgarian Ruler's Agent Arrives in New York.

Eleanora is Coming to the U. S. as a Student and Will Study Our Hospitals.

New York, April 10.—William Caspar, personal representative of Queen Eleanora of Bulgaria, arrived here on the Imperator to make final arrangements for the visit of the queen to the United States. The queen, he said, will sail late in May and will visit the larger cities as far west as Chicago, remaining in this country about five weeks and traveling as a private individual.

"The queen is coming to the United States as a student," he said. "She desires to study the methods employed in handling immigrants and is also intensely interested in hospitals and the training of nurses."

"During the recent Balkan war American nurses did the most to relieve the sufferings of wounded Bulgarian soldiers. In the Russian-Japanese war, the queen, then the Princess of Reuss, saw much service as a nurse, and she now owns three hospitals in Bulgaria."

"In Bulgaria there is a lack of professional trained nurses. The queen will bring with her four young Macedonian women whom she will have instructed in an American hospital, and she plans to take back several American nurses as teachers. She will have a suite of about fifteen."

"Queen Eleanora has not paid the slightest attention to letters threatening her life, as she realized they were made by ignorant persons and knows she will be protected in this country."

"It is certain that the queen will visit Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Baltimore, Washington and Rochester, Minn., where she will be the guest of Doctor Mayo. Whether she will go to the Pacific coast depends upon developments."

MERELY MATTER OF BUSINESS

"Shop Talk" of Kind, However, That Would Give an Ordinary Man the Shivers.

He looked so smooth and shiny and altogether so correctly dressed, as if he was ready to break into or out of half mourning, that it was certain he was an undertaker. He had that Mona Lisa expression that comes to a man when he buys his first assortment of satin lined caskets and puts out his sign "The tariff does it. You can be buried now 24 per cent. cheaper than you could a year ago. Why delay?"

A fat, jovial person jumped the claim to half the seat in the car. His black kid gloves, a black Ascot tie and a clerical collar that buttoned at the back, with rounded corners just failing to meet, labeled him as being of the same trade.

"Business good? Lots of people dying out your way?" asked the jolly one.

"Only fair, nothing to boast of. But there's an epidemic of typhoid at Jonestown, and there's scarlet fever broke out in the school over at Smithville. Looks as if there might be something doing pretty soon."

Want Simple English.

"Yes," said the earnest professor, "what we want in literature is direct and simple English."

The listeners gravely nodded.

"Direct and simple," they echoed.

"Those conglomerated effusions of vapid intellects," the professor went on, "which posed in lamentable attitudes as the emotional and intellectual ingredients of fictional realism fall far short of the obvious requirements of contemporary demands and violate the traditional methods of the transcendent minds of the Elizabethan era of glorious memory. Plain and simple English is the demand of the hour."

Whereupon everybody applauded and went home.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

From such homes as theirs and yours come the musicians of today and the future. Provide these young people with a True Toned piano and one that retains that Tone.

"For the last twenty years we have been buying the Kingsbury Piano for our schools until now we have some twenty or more. After a use of nearly two decades, the oldest ones are in first class condition and the best evidence I can give of our satisfaction with the Kingsbury is that we always buy them, and in all these years have never spent a cent on their repair other than the usual tuning to which all pianos are subject."

From the letter of a well known Supt. of Schools—Name on request.

CHAPTER VIII—Sara arranges with Booth to paint a picture of Hetty. Booth has a haunting feeling that he has seen Hetty before. Looking through a portfolio of pictures by an unknown English artist he finds one of Hetty. He speaks to her about it. Hetty declares it must be a picture of Hetty Glynn, an English actress, who resembles her very much.

CHAPTER IX—Leslie Wrاندall becomes impatient and jealous over the picture painting and declares he is going to propose to Hetty at the first opportunity and have it over with.

CHAPTER X—Much to his chagrin Leslie is refused by Hetty. Sara, between whom and Hetty a strong mutual affection has grown up, tries to persuade the girl that she should not let the tragedy prevent her from marrying.

He eaged deeper in the chair. "I can't get it through my head," he muttered.

"As I said before, you did it badly," she said. "You took too much for granted. Isn't that true?"

"God knows I didn't expect her to refuse me," he exclaimed, glaring at her. "Would I have been such a fool as to ask her if I thought there was the remotest chance of being—?" The very thought of the word caused it to stick in his throat. He swallowed hard.

"You really love her?" she demanded.

"Love her?" There was a sob in his voice. "I adore her, Sara. I can't live without her. And the worst of it is, I love her now more than I did before. Oh, it's appalling! It's horrible! What am I to do, Sara? What am I to do?"

"Be a man for a little while, that's all," she said coolly.

"Don't joke with me," he groaned.

"Go to bed, and when you see her in the morning tell her that you understand. Thank her for what she has done for you. Be—"

"Thank her?" he almost shouted.

"Yes; for destroying all that is detestable in you, Leslie—your self-conceit, your arrogance, your false notions concerning yourself—in a word, your egotism."

He blinked incredulously. "Do you know what you're saying?" he gasped. She went on as if she hadn't heard him.

"Assure her that she is to feel no compunction for what she has done, that you are content to be her loyal, devoted friend to the end of your days."

"But, hang it, Sara, I love her!"

"Don't let her suspect that you are humiliated. On the contrary, give her to understand that you are cleansed and glorified."

"What utter tommy—"

"Wait! Believe me, it is your only chance. You will have to learn some time that you can't ride roughshod among angels. Think it over, old fellow. You have had a good lesson. Profit by it."

"You mean I'm to sit down and twirl my thumbs and let some other chap snap her up under my very nose? Well, I guess not!"

"Not necessarily. If you take it manfully she may discover a new interest in you. Don't breathe a word of love to her. Go on as if nothing had happened. Don't forget that I told you in the beginning not to take no for an answer."

He drooped once more, biting his lip. "I don't see how I can ever tell mother that she refused—" evident that she had stopped short in her nervous, excited pacing of the floor. She was very pale, but there was a dogged, set expression about her mouth.

"Come in, dear," she said, in a manner that showed she had been expecting the visit. "Have you seen him?"

Sara closed the door, and then stood with her back against it, regarding her agitated friend with serious, compassionate eyes.

"Yes, He is terribly upset. It was a blow to him, Hetty."

"I am sorry for him, Sara. He was so dreadfully in earnest. But, thank God, it is over!" She threw back her head and breathed deeply. "That horrible, horrible nightmare is ended. I suppose it had to be. But the mockery of it—think of it, Sara!—the damnable mockery of it!"

"Poor Leslie!" sighed the other. "Poor old Leslie."

Hetty's eyes filled with tears. "Oh, I am sorry for him. He didn't deserve it. God in heaven, if he really knew everything! If he knew why I could not listen to him, why I almost screamed when he held my hands in his and begged—actually begged me to— Oh, it was ghastly, Sara!"

She covered her face with her hands, and swayed as if about to fall. Sara came quickly to her side. Putting an arm about the quivering shoulders, she led the girl to the broad window seat and threw open the blinds.

"Don't speak of it, dearest—don't think of that. Sit here quietly in the air and pull yourself together. Let me talk to you. Let me tell you how deeply distressed I am, not only on your account, but his."

They were silent for a long time, the girl lying still and almost breathless against the other's shoulders. She was still wearing the delicate blue dinner gown, but in her fingers was the exquisite pearl necklace Sara had given her for Christmas. She had taken it off and had forgotten to drop it in her jewel box.

"I suppose he will go up to the city early," she said monotonously.

"Leslie is a better loser than you think, my dear," said Sara, looking out over the tops of the cedars. "He will not run away."

Hetty looked up in alarm. "You mean he will persist in—in his attentions," she cried.

"Oh, no. I don't believe you will find him to be the bugbear you imagine. He can take defeat like a man. He is devoted to you, he is devoted to me. Your decision no doubt wrecks his fondest hopes in life, but it doesn't make a weakening of him."

"Damn it all, Sara! She—She Turned Me Down!"

"I don't quite understand—"

"He is sustained by the belief that he has paid you the highest honor a man can pay to a woman. There is no reason why he should turn his back on you, as a sulky boy might do. No, my dear, I think you may count on him as your best, most loyal friend from this night on. He has just said to me that his greatest pain lies in the fear that you may not be willing to accept him as a simple, honest, unassuming friend since—"

"Oh, Sara, if he will only be that and nothing more!" cried the girl wonderingly.

Sara smiled confidently. "I fancy you haven't much to fear in that direction, my dear. It isn't in Leslie Wrاندall's make-up to court a second repulse. He is all pride. The blow it suffered tonight can't be repeated—at least, not by the same person."

"I am so sorry it had to be Leslie," murmured Hetty.

"Be nice to him, Hetty. He deserves that much of you, to say the least. I should miss him if he found it impossible to come here on account of—"

"I wouldn't have that happen for the world," cried the girl in distress.

"He is your dearest friend. Send me away, Sara, if you must. Don't let anything stand in the way of your friendship for Leslie. You depend on him for so much, dear. I can't bear the thought of—"

"Hush, dearest! You are first in my love. Better for me to lose all the others and still have you."

The girl looked at her in wonder for a long time. "Oh, I know you mean it, Sara, but—how can it be true?"

"Put yourself in my place," was all that Sara said in reply, and her companion had no means of translating the sentence.

She could only remain mute and wondering, her eyes fixed on that other mystery, the cameo face in the moon that hung high above the somber forest.

"Poor Leslie," murmured Sara, a long time afterward, a dreamy note in her voice. "I can't put him out of my thoughts. He will never get over it. I have never seen one so stricken and yet so brave. He would have been more to a husband to you, Hetty. It is in him to be a slave to the woman he loves. I know him well, poor boy."

Hetty was silent, brooding. Sara resumed her thoughtful observations.

"Why should you let what happened months ago stand in the way of—"

She got no farther than that. With an exclamation of horror, the girl sprang away from her and glowered at her with dilated eyes.

"My God, Sara!" she whispered hoarsely. "Are you mad?"

The other sighed. "I suppose you must think it of me," she said dismally. "We are made differently, you and I. If I cared for a man, nothing in all this world could stand between me and him."

Hetty was still staring. "You don't mean to say you would have me marry Challis Wrاندall's brother?" she said, in a sort of stupefaction.

Sara shook her head. "I mean this: you would be justified in permitting Leslie to glorify that his brother deserted; your womanhood, my dear."

"My God, Sara!" again fell in a hoarse whisper from the girl's lips.

"I simply voice my point of view," explained Sara calmly. "As I said before, we look at things differently."

"I can't believe you mean what you said," cried Hetty. "Why—why, if I loved him with all my heart, soul and body I could not even think of— Oh, I shudder to think of it!"

"I love you," continued Sara, fixing her mysterious eyes on those of the girl, "and yet you took from me something more than a brother. I love you, knowing everything, and I am paying in full the debt he owes to you. Leslie, knowing nothing, is no less your debtor. All this is paradoxical, I know, my dear, but we must remember that while other people may be indebted to us, we also owe something to ourselves. We ought to take pay from ourselves. Please do not conclude that I am urging or even advising you to look with favor upon Leslie Wrاندall's honorable, sincere proposal of marriage. I am merely trying to convince you that you are entitled to all that any man can give you in this world of ours—women all are, for that matter."

"I was sure that you couldn't ask me to marry him. I couldn't believe—"

"Forget what I have said, dearest, if it grieves you," cried Sara warmly. She arose and drew the girl close to her. "Kiss me, Hetty." Their lips met. The girl's eyes were closed, but Sara's were wide open and gleaming.

"It is because I love you," she said softly, but she did not complete the sentence that burned in her brain. To herself she repeated: "It is because I love you that I would scourge you with Wrاندalls!"

"You are very good to me, Sara," sobbed Hetty.

"You will be nice to Leslie?"

"Yes, yes! If he will only let me be his friend."

"He asks no more than that. Now, you must go to bed."

Suddenly, without warning, she held the girl tightly in her arms. Her breathing was quick, as of one moved by some sharp sensation of terror. When Hetty, in no little wonder, opened her eyes Sara's face was turned away, and she was looking over her shoulder as if cause for alarm had come from behind.

"What is it?" cried Hetty anxiously. She saw the look of dread in her companion's eyes, even as it began to fade.

"I don't know," muttered Sara. "Something, I can't tell what, came over me. I thought some one was stealing up behind me. How silly of me."

"Ah," said Hetty, with an odd smile. "I can understand how you felt."

"Hetty, will you take me in with you tonight?" whispered Sara nervously. "Let me, sleep with you. I can't explain it, but I am afraid to be alone tonight." The girl's answer was a glad smile of acquiescence.

"Come with me, then, to my bedroom while I change. I have the queerest feeling that some one is in my room. I don't want to be alone. Are you afraid?"

Hetty held back, her face blanching. "No, I am not afraid," she cried at once, and started toward the door.

"There is some one in this room," said Sara a few moments later, when they were in the big bedroom down the hall.

whispered warnings into her unheeding ears, but she sat there unprotected against its chill, her nightdress damp with the mist that crept up with sinister stealth from the sea.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Drink lots of water.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

When we eructate sour food, acid fluids and we belch gases it doesn't mean the stomach is lacking in digestive juices, says a noted authority who states that nearly all stomach distress and indigestion is a result of acidity; meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the digestive organs. This irritating acid retards digestion and promotes food fermentation. Then everything eaten sours in the stomach like garbage in a can, forming gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon, producing a heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest or we eructate food, constantly belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, bloating, water-brash and nausea.

He tells us to get a package of 10 grain Sodagen tablets at any pharmacy and take one tablet any time followed by a tumbler of water. This will instantly neutralize acidity, stop fermentation, absorb the gases and sweeten the entire digestive system.

A well-known local druggist says these 10 grain Sodagen tablets are an old favorite Antacid used by thousands of men and women because of their harmless nature, being composed of Soda, Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate U. S. P.

TREATY IS OPPOSED

Payment of $25,000,000 to Colombia Faces Opposition.

Obligation Is on Other Side, in the View of Foreign Relations Committeemen.

Washington, April 10.—Despite denials from the White House that the new treaty signed with Colombia at Bogota contains any expression of regret or apology by the United States in connection with the partition of the Panama canal strip, considerable opposition is expected in the senate when the treaty comes up for ratification. The payment of a cash indemnity of $25,000,000 to Colombia, which the treaty admitted was one of the features of the treaty, in itself will meet with great opposition.

The official plan is to publish details of the treaty later by arrangement with the foreign office at Bogota.

Senator William Alden Smith, Republican, of Michigan, a member of the foreign relations committee, said:

"I do not think we are called upon to pay Colombia a penny. The obligation is on the other side. We have benefited Colombia by building a ditch that cost us $375,000,000 and has extended her shore line from ocean to ocean. If we follow this policy much further we will not have any national honor or friends left. It is a part of our foolish diplomacy."

Senator Joseph L. Bristow, Republican, of Kansas, said: "Any member of the senate who votes for such a treaty should be driven out of public life and repudiated by the American people."

Senator Lewis said he could not believe that the administration intends to send to the senate a treaty involving an apology by the United States for the secession of Panama. He said there was no evidence that the United States or any of its officials fomented the revolution.

FAIL TO RECOMMEND "T. R."

Maine Republicans Refuse to Urge His Nomination.

Augusta, Me., April 10.—A move to have the Republican state convention recommend the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt as a candidate for president in 1916 met with failure. A resolution to that end adopted by the Republican caucus of the town of Yarmouth and offered as an amendment to the platform was declared out of order.

The platform as adopted condemns the national democratic administration for what is declared to be its "hurried surrender to Great Britain in the matter of the Panama canal," its "violation of platform pledges" and "its vague, vacillating policy in dealing with conditions in Mexico." Woman suffrage and national prohibition are favored. The Underwood tariff law is characterized as "unjustly sectional and a menace to our industries."

A. B. TRENTMAN IS INDICTED

Wealthy Fort Wayne Man Held for Death of Black.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 10.—An indictment charging murder in the first degree was returned by the grand jury against A. B. Trentman, widely-known business man, who shot Howard Bruce, colored head waiter at the Anthony hotel, two weeks ago. Trentman has been in jail since Bruce died a week ago. According to the evidence, Trentman walked 50 feet to get his revolver out of a grip and kept the weapon hidden until he was close enough to press it against Bruce's body.

REFUSE DEMANDS OF MINERS

Indiana Operators Reject Six of Sixteen Requests.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 10.—Six of the sixteen demands presented by the scale committee of district No. 11 of the United Mine Workers of America were rejected by the Indiana Bituminous Operators' association. Action was deferred on the demand that the companies deliver the powder from the magazine to the working place, and at the time of adjournment the demand for an eight-hour day for engineers, firemen and blacksmiths was under discussion.

FRUIT UNHARMED BY FROST

Michigan Growers Say Buds Had Not Advanced Far Enough.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 10.—Reports from the western Michigan fruit belt indicate that practically no damage was done by the freeze. Owing to the cold weather the buds had not advanced enough to be damaged by frost or ice.

Chicago, April 10.—George A. Sandusky, a former attendant in the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane at Danmora, was placed on trial before Judge McDonald for the murder of Charles Hoenicke, an inmate, whom he is charged with having kicked to death November 20, 1913.

Worcester, Mass., April 10.—Four women clerks in a jewelry store here were held up by a highwayman and beaten and robbed. The robber got only a few dollars.

WILSON POLICIES

HIT BY G. O. P.

Cummins, Whitman, Fess and Manahan Attack President at Chicago Feast.

POLICY ON TOLLS ASSAILED

Attitude on Mexico and Tariff Law Also Criticized—Three Thousand Men and Women Hear Law-makers at Banquet.

Chicago, April 10.—President Wilson's demand for the repeal of the act exempting American coastwise ships from paying Panama canal tolls was made the basis for vigorous attacks upon him by national Republican leaders. They were followed by emphatic denunciation of his foreign policy, his attitude toward the Huerta government in Mexico and the manner in which he has dealt with congress.

Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, Representative James Manahan of Minnesota, Representative Simon D. Fess of Ohio and Charles S. Whitman, district attorney of New York, denounced the president's policies.

Three thousand Republican men and women attended the Appomattox day banquet of the Hamilton club.

Toll Stand Attacked.

Representative Manahan was the first to assail the national executive. His allusion to the Panama tolls question was a passing one, but more bitter than any made by the other speakers.

"The repeal of the Panama toll exemption law to sustain the diplomacy of the department of state also will sustain the dividends of the transcontinental railroads," he announced. "The honor of the high contracting parties" to the treaty is upheld religiously by the administration; in consequence the high cost of living is likewise upheld irreligiously by excessive freight rate taxes."

A few minutes later District Attorney Whitman also attacked the administration on the tolls question and on its Mexican policy.

Representative Fess confined his attack upon the administration's foreign policy to general terms.

Cummins on Tolls.

Senator Cummins said:

"To repeal the exemption clause under the message of the president and to meet the attitude which a foreign nation has assumed, without a reassertion of our power over coastwise shipping is to put the British construction upon the treaty forever," he asserted. "I confess that it appals me when I think of the consequences of that interpretation. If it is the correct one then it would have been far better if we never had entered upon the mighty enterprise. It binds us to an obligation that a nation, with the least sense of self-respect cannot and will not observe."

"While our flag will be flying there we might as well lift by its side the flags of other nations. We bear the expense of the canal's construction, its maintenance, its operation, its defense, but we have no rights there not held equally by every country on earth. If the president is right, then if we were to have war with Japan, for instance, we would be obliged to pass a Japanese warship through the canal to bombard and despoil our coasts, and not only so but we would be bound to hold our own warships, that might be there, 24 hours in order to give the enemy full opportunity to ravage our defenseless cities."

"This and more is what my vote would mean if I were to cast it for the repeal insisted upon by the president, and I will not so cast it."

WHEN THE PROOF CAN BE SO EASILY INVESTIGATED.

When so many grateful citizens of Dixon testify to benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, can you doubt the evidence? The proof is not far away—almost at your own door. Read what a resident of Dixon says about Doan's Kidney Pills. Can you demand more convincing testimony?

John Edous, 812 W. Fifth St., Dixon, Ill., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for lame back and kidney trouble and they have done me a great deal of good. Last fall I was suffering with a lame back and my kidneys were out of order. Doan's Kidney Pills removed the lameness and regulated the action of my kidneys. Another of my family has used Doan's Kidney Pills and the relief has been permanent. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for what they have done for me."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Salzman had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ossining, N. Y., April 10.—Behind the grim walls of Sing Sing prison

We are so confident of the lasting and efficient quality of the 1914 Mitchell car that we are asking you to give us an opportunity to convince you that there is some difference in automobiles. No constant shifting your gears, or taking unnecessary starts for hills, or when you happen in back of a load on a narrow road your long-stroke motor, with plenty of power, will allow you to go as slow as the team walks, on high speed. Then when you can get around you are away as easy and smooth as an electric. Give us an opportunity to show this car, and convince you of her qualities. Drive a Mitchell and be pleased.

PINEAPPLES

Practically all the Pineapples offered for sale in Dixon in the natural state are from Cuba, with a few from Florida. They are all pulled green to stand shipping this far. They ripen off the stem and consequently lose that fine Pineapple flavor.

The Hawaiian canned Pineapple that is so well known all over the United States for its fine flavor, is a pine that has grown and ripened in the Hawaiian Islands and canned right there, immediately after being picked. Your own canning cannot get the same flavor, because you cannot get a Pineapple here that compares with the Hawaiian Pine, (it being too far to ship from there). Hawaiian canned Pineapple will be very cheap this year; we believe you can buy better and cheaper already canned, than you can buy the fresh fruit and can it.

A special agent will be at the store next week to tell you more about it. See him.
